

ERIK CLARK

comedian

Some people deal with life by paying someone else for counseling, comedian E. Clark tells jokes for his own personal therapy. As a young boy, Erik was always known for telling it like it was by using comedy for his own personal release. Although Erik was first influenced by comedians Richard Pryor and Eddie Murphy, reading Dick Gregory's autobiography provided him the necessary motivation to pursue his comedic dreams.

Since sharpening his comedic talents, Erik has opened for Dave Chapelle, one of The Original Kings of Comedy, D.L. Hughley, and one of The Original Queens of Comedy, Adele Givens. He has also opened for comedians Corey Holcomb of The Last Comic Standing, AJ Jamal, and Alex Thomas. Erik has also opened for Gospel Recording Artists-Mary Mary.

Erik has performed from Washington, DC to California. In California, he is a favorite at many of the top comedy clubs including The Punch Line Comedy Club in San Francisco and Sacramento, Tommy T's in Concord, and Mixed Nuts in Los Angeles. He is also the winner of the 2004 Sacramento Black Comedy Competition. Erik has performed at corporate events for Hewlett Packard, UCLA's Anderson School of Business, and Allstate Insurance. Erik has also appeared on the television show Funny is Funny on SiTV.
