

He will make your puny brains quiver like a bowl of congealed chicken fat.

Eric Haines hits the stage and transforms from a painfully normal guy into an electrifying performer with enough energy to power a small city. His show, Bizarre Comedy Universe, is an overwhelming mix of stand-up comedy, unforgettable characters, music, audience participation, a six foot unicycle routine and bizarre variety acts. Haines describes his show as 'Part rock concert, part comedy show and part twisted, bizarre circus.'

Haines has continued to sharpen his skills as a comedian, songwriter and entertainer. He is equally at home on stage in a rowdy comedy club or at a sophisticated corporate event. Highlights of his comedy career include performing with both Weird Al Yankovic and New York's Outrageous Universe Revival Festival.

Haines also has expertise as a carpenter, having spent three years personally building his family's dream home. In an ironic twist, upon completing the 4,000 sq ft log house surrounded by a pine forest, medical tests revealed that he that he was severely allergic to pine. He now lives in a plastic bubble near Seattle with his wife and twin three year olds.

